

Active Colorado Living: Retiring in Northern Colorado

The beauty of Colorado spans from Branson to Fort Collins with artistry in between. Retiring in Colorado is a decision to be confident in, as it's a state filled with charming landscape and fascinating people. The state is proud and passionate and welcomes all with open arms.

Northern Colorado is chalk full of activities for recent retirees, including art galleries and studios, homegrown restaurants and weather to satisfy. When you're not admiring the Rocky Mountains from your back porch, you'll cherish the memories being made in the quaint towns that make up this part of Colorado.

Now that you've selected the destination, it's time to choose a community. There are an abundance of options to consider, so take your time visiting each location, meeting the staff and familiarizing yourself with the grounds. We've listed a few Northern Colorado favorites, which one will you call home?

Anthem Ranch, Broomfield CO (Link to the info on the ACL site)
